

THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
VINCENT C. GRAY, MAYOR

Proclamation

D.C. HEALTH DATA & INNOVATION WEEK

JUNE 2 - 7, 2012

WHEREAS, D.C. Health Data & Innovation Week brings together attendees from the District of Columbia and across the United States to meet with health care leaders and technology developers, to raise awareness about ways to transform the health care system through data and innovation; and

WHEREAS, this event is organized by local District of Columbia healthcare innovators in partnership with the United States Department of Health and Human Services, NASA Human Health and Performance Center, Kaiser Permanente's Center for Total Health and Capitol Hill Medical Center in the District of Columbia, Health 2.0, and HealthCamp; and

WHEREAS, this week's events encourage innovators to utilize health data to develop applications that raise awareness of health system performance and spark community action to improve health; and

WHEREAS, the District of Columbia continues to explore innovative methods to delivery better healthcare, integrate prevention, enhance patient safety, and create comparative effectiveness and quality of service:

NOW THEREFORE, I, THE MAYOR OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, do hereby proclaim June 2 - 7, 2012, as "D.C. HEALTH DATA & INNOVATION WEEK" in Washington, D.C.

Vincent C. Gray
