About HealthCamp

HealthCamp is a user-organized "un-conference" movement that brings consumers, health providers, health industry experts and technology professionals together for a one day event to exchange ideas informally, locally, openly.

Participants themselves provide the content, with break-out sessions they develop themselves and plug into a schedule grid on the day of the event. Anyone can present and host a session in nearly any format. The Agenda for the day grows organically as the conversations and ideas develop.

Discussions cover topics such as Participatory healthcare, diet and vitality, the use of Social Media in healthcare and mHealth. Multiple sessions run in parallel. The meeting space will allow for 3-6 sessions of different sizes to take place concurrently.

Part of

HEALTH DATA
AND
INNOVATION WEEK
DC June 2-7, 2012

What is HealthCamp?

- HealthCa.mpDC is an un-conference that is designed to provide a creative environment to bring together different groups who otherwise might not meet at traditional health or medical events.
- Participants can speak on a wide variety of health-related topics but the focus will be on “Innovating the Care Culture.”
- Participants will hear and network with some of the extraordinary and innovative people transforming health care.

When is HealthCa.mpDC?

- Monday, June 4, 2012. Registration opens at 8am. The event begins promptly at 9am.

Who is participating?

- Health innovators, advocates, and others interested in the changing nature of health care.
- Health practitioners (e.g., doctors, nurses, medical students, and other professionals).
- Entrepreneurs and developers.
- Health policy experts.
- Executives from Health-Related industries (e.g., hospitals, health care facilities, insurance, pharmaceutical, medical device, software).
